

Expat Tax Filing Guidelines

Switzerland - 2024 Edition

Table of Contents

1. Introduction
2. Who Must File
3. Required Documents
4. Filing Process
5. Common Deductions
6. Foreign Income
7. Deadlines and Penalties
8. Getting Help

1. Introduction

Welcome to Swiss Tax Filing for Expats!

This guide will help you understand your Swiss tax obligations as an expatriate living and working in Switzerland. Whether you're subject to withholding tax (Quellensteuer) or need to file a full tax return, this guide covers everything you need to know.

2. Who Must File

You must file a Swiss tax return if you:

- Have a B permit (foreign worker) Tj 0 -10 Td (- Have been in Switzerland for more than 30 days) Tj 0 -10 Td (- Have additional income)

Step 2: Choose Filing Method recommended available at tax office recommended for complex cases

Step 3: Complete the Return

Step 4: Submit and Pay

Step 5: Follow Up

5. Common Deductions

Maximize your deductions:

Social Security & Insurance:

Pension Contributions:

Work-Related Expenses: